MAY REPORT THURSDAY EVENING.

It is not improbable that the special investigation committee of the city government may render its report to the board of mayor and aldermen, regarding the way in which former municipal officials were in the habit of conducting their departments, on Thursday evening. It is understood that excellent progress has been made up to date. The committee had a long session at city hall on Tuesday afternoon and did some hard work.

Unknown Vessel Ashore On Maine Coast.

Struck On Bible Rock, Between Wells And Ogunquit.

Supposed To Be The Brumelzia, From Hamburg For Portland.

PORTLAND, ME., April 23.—Captain Nicholson of the steamship Mora, from Louisburg, with coal, which arrived here tonight, reports that a large two masted steamer was ashore on Bible rock, between Wells and Ogunquit, this afternoon. The vessel is supposed to be the Hamburg-American liner, Brumelzia, bound from Hamburg for Portland. Nicholson says the distressed craft seemed to be in rather a bad position in the breakers, and the people aboard probably were unable to reach the shore and send for assistance. Capt. Nicholson was not able to approach the liner, as his steamer was heavily laden and drawing twenty-eight feet of water, while the water where the disabled vessel lay was very shoal.

WENT OVER THE ROUTE.

Aldermen View for Themselves the Proposed Electric Road Extension.

The board of aldermen took a ride in a barge, Tuesday afternoon, over the route of the proposed electric road extensions. The members assembled at the aldermanic chamber about four o'clock. In the absence of Mayor McIntire, (who was in Boston on business,) Ald. Vaughan was chosen chairman. A recess was taken, for the ride over the route.

The board was accompanied by Civil Engineer Thompson of the Boston and Maine railroad, Attorney John H. Bartlett and Street Commissioner Hett. The trip was taken principally for the purpose of noting the proposed locations of the poles. These spots had been staked out earlier in the day by Civil Engineers J. H. Clark and H. M. Flanders of Malden, Mass., who arrived on the noon train in response to a summons from Engineer Thompson.

The ride occupied about one and a half hours. After it was over, the board reassembled at city hall and on motion of Ald. Phinney adjourned until next Friday evening at eight o'clock.

WHIST PARTIES.

The Daughters of Liberty had a dozen tables at their whist party in Rockingham hall, Market street, on Thursday evening. Owing to a scarcity of female players, one or two gentlemen had to act as such. Mrs. Duckert took ladies' first prize, a gilt belt, and "Susie" DeFontaine won second, a picture. F. Andrews and F. Willey, being tied for gentlemen's first, they cut the cards for a decision and the former won, getting a hat brooch, while a shaving mug went to Mr. Willey.

At the party conducted in the rooms of the Warner club, on Tuesday evening, Arthur Rutledge scored fifty-three points and took first prize, a turkey weighing twelve pounds.

The party which was to have been held in Conservatory hall on Tuesday evening was cancelled.

AROUND THE CITY.

Construction work of all kinds ought to be on the boom in this vicinity for some time. Outside of the navy yard, which of course is to be depended upon for employment for many people at construction enterprises, the building of many new houses in Kittery and Kittery Point and in the city has been planned. The putting in of the new water system in Kittery will prove beneficial for hundreds of laborers and cause a boom to plumbers, and house carpenters, who will be needed also. The possibility of the extensions of the electric roads is encouraging and all in all our mechanics and laboring men ought to be able to keep busy.

The heavy rains of the month have been deadly to the worms and even the sidewalks have been covered with their bodies. They seem to have been fairly drowned and washed out of the earth. It is not to be wondered at, when one reads of the dead having been washed out of their graves up the state. But the wholesale slaughter of these little things by the rains is very unusual. The birds have made the most of the appearance of the worms and have secured, very easily, some fat meals.

The new clubhouse for the York Country club is nearly completed and the work on the golf links is being pushed along as rapidly as possible. Nine holes have been laid out and the putting greens and teeing places have been finished. The club has one of the finest links at any summer resort on the New England coast. The club numbers among its members many prominent men from all over the country, among them being Charles Fox of Philadelphia, Thomas Nelson Page, William Dean Howells, Gen. Nelson A. Miles, U. S. A., and Chief Justice McKenna. Last season the membership list was full, but this year it will be extended, owing to the size of the club and grounds. From the clubhouse an iron pier will be built to low water mark and a float placed beyond this; this will afford an opportunity to get to the club at all times by water.

First Assistant Keeper Charles E. Williams of Boon Island lighthouse was in the city on Tuesday, he having come in from the island on Monday. Mr. Williams reports that the storm of two weeks ago was the heaviest of the year, in point of heavy winds and big seas. The first time that a boat has been launched since then was on Monday, when he came to the mainland. The trip in was a very rough one. All of the folks on the island were reported to be in good health. Mr. Williams will return to the island as soon as the sea goes down and the wind becomes favorable.

This is the time of the year when the section men on the railroads usually burn the grass along the tracks, but it has been so wet that no attempt has yet been made to dispose of the dead vegetation. The long series of rains have given the new grass a good start and this will have to be destroyed also when it becomes dry enough to kindle the roadbeds.

There is an old maxim which says "patient waiters are no losers," but it is very doubtful if that will be a solace to the skippers, who have been held at this port for many days on account of adverse weather, and all anxiously awaiting for a chance to proceed to sea. The weather conditions in the harbor and along the coast are about the same as it has been for the past four days; thick fog, clearing at intervals with an easterly wind prevailing. No attempt has been made for the tugs, barges and schooners to leave this port, and they will not venture seaward until there is a decided improvement in the weather conditions.

The new city directory is appreciated very much by those who find it necessary to frequently refer to the book. With the use of the old book, it was a matter of guesswork, even after trouble had been taken to look up some address or to locate some person. The new directory is by far more complete and better in every way than any previous work of the kind. It is printed with new type, the paper is heavy and firm, the names show up clearly on the page and it is about as correct as it is possible to get it. There are many additions this year, both in names and in general information.

Portsmouth will soon receive a visit from an interesting advertising novelty. Last summer Manager Keith, of Yande ville firm, sent an advertising outfit through the New England states that attracted great attention. It consisted of a handsome wagon, drawn by two beautiful black horses, from which, at night, were exhibited motion and stereopticon pictures. This week the same team starts out again with a new lot of pictures. William Morrill, one of Manager Keith's trusted veteran employees, will be in charge.

The block to be erected by Oliver W. Ham on Market street next to his present place of business, to take the place of the old wooden structure that is being torn down, will make a decided improvement in the appearance of the street at this point. The old building that is now coming down has for some time presented a past usefulness out line and was found to be really unsafe. The new building will be a modern one and the lower floor will be designed for a display window, which will be made use of by Mr. Ham, himself, in his furniture business. He intends to have a building that he can feel proud of.

UNION VETERANS UNION.

Fourth In Series Of Camp Fires Held On Tuesday Evening.

The fourth in the series of social camp fires conducted by General Gilman Marston command, Union Veterans Union, was held in U. V. U. hall, on Tuesday evening. A number of invited guests, both ladies and gentlemen, were present. A substantial supper was served, following which an interesting programme of vocal and instrumental music and recitations was carried out. Several of the numbers were encored, and all received a generous measure of applause. The veterans are royal entertainers, and no pains were spared to make each and every guest feel thoroughly at home.

It is safe to say that there was not a person present who did not pass a most enjoyable evening, and if such there were it was certainly no fault of the members of the order.

The Union Veterans Union is one of the most popular and influential organizations in the city, and no one who has ever attended one of these entertainments wonders at its popularity.

The programme for Tuesday evening follows:

MOSES—JOY.

Simple Home Wedding Unites Two Very Popular Portsmouth People.

The marriage of Samuel W. Moses and Miss Lilla L. Joy, both of this city, took place at 48 Union street (where the bride has resided with her parents) on Tuesday evening, at six o'clock. The ceremony made no pretension at display, but was very simple and witnessed by only a select company of relatives.

The officiating clergyman was Rev. George W. Gale, pastor of the Middle-street Baptist church. Rev. Lucius B. Thayer of the North (Congregational) church was also present.

After the ceremony, a fine supper of salads, ices, rolls, coffee, fruit punch and other good things was served. The dining room had been very attractively arranged in a floral way, by Misses Joy and Mrs. Moses. The bride and groom departed on the 7:28 o'clock train, Boston-bound, for a bridal trip which will take them to Boston, New York and probably other large cities. Upon their return, they will reside at 48 Union street.

The groom is junior member of the firm of Moses Bros., Congress street merchants of most enviable standing, who have been in business here for many years. His bride is daughter of former City Marshal and Mrs. Charles H. Joy. Both the contracting parties are very popular, as was conclusively shown by the numerous presents of value which they received. The tidings of these nuptials will be read with deep interest by a large number of people, in this city and elsewhere, all of whom will join heartily in wishing Mr. and Mrs. Moses a long period of happiness.

FOOLISH AMBITION.

WOMEN MADE UNHAPPY BY CRYING FOR THE MOON.

One of the Habits That Are Fostered by Modern Extravagance—Laugh With the Merry Brook, Count Your Blessings and Be Happy.

The earth is green, the flowers pink and white and the sky that hangs above is of a tender blue, the stream that ripples along is clearer and more sparkling than jewels, and yet all this is not enough. We cry for the moon.

Maybe you live in a little town where you have a big back yard with a flourishing garden, or maybe you live out in the country among the very green fields and close to the laughing little brook that the first city dwellers often travel many a mile to get to. If this is the case, the moon that you are probably crying for is a great big, noisy city, where you believe life is so much more interesting than it is in your little nest of a home. Therefore you are a discontented woman.

Maybe you are a city woman and cry for the moon, the moon of your particular desire, being apartments in a fine hotel, where you may live as Mrs. Very-rich does, paying more for one week's luxuries than you pay for a whole month of home comforts.

It isn't a good thing to get in the habit of crying for the moon. To be sure, it is a habit, one that is surprisingly easy to form, and rather difficult to break, though it is by no means an impossibility to break it. The crying for the moon habit first starts, through envy. It begins on the very day that you gaze upon your neighbor, who seems more fortunate than yourself, and wish that you could do as she does. Follow this little spark of envy and add fuel to it by every little whim by contrasting your own life and its affairs with the life and affairs of Mrs. Very-rich, and in a little time your friends will begin to wonder how it is that your voice that used to be sweet has a harsh note and why you frown instead of laughing merrily and often, as you once did. The frown and the harsh note are unmistakable signs of the beginning of the crying for the moon habit.

This is the story of a girl who wrote some very nice verses once upon a time and a dainty little romance or two that found their way into print. If this girl keeps a diary, one day she will probably turn back its pages to a certain date and smile—hope she will be wise enough to smile—over the entry made on that page.

This girl was fortunate enough to have won two of the very best things in life—the love and the admiration of the folks with whom she daily associated. Her family was so proud of her that of her she would feel a blush creeping up over her face at their unstinted praises. She wondered sometimes if strangers would not think her a conceited prig, that she allowed folks to openly declare her the brightest and wildest girl in town.

Well, in spite of all this that was delightful, the girl one day fell to crying for the moon. Her book of verses—she had paid for its publication—was to be found in every home of Blankville, and the printed copies of her three published stories were pasted in her scrapbook along with a lot of verses that had never been printed, just penned in her neat, feminine hand.

As soon as this girl began to cry for the moon she fancied she had outgrown the folks around her. She sighed for a "literary atmosphere," and one day she left home and went to a big, bustling city to find it.

This was a long time ago. I should never in the world have guessed at the bitter disappointments that came to this girl had she not told me of them. She has told me of the awfulness of the shock (it was truly awful to her) when she first discovered that as the authoress of "Songs of the Meadows" she was entirely unknown and that the literary lights who were dined and wined and listened to, when they condescended to speak from platforms, by admiring hundreds, regarded her as a very ordinary little being, if, indeed, they thought of her at all.

Now, I am glad to relate, this girl has quite grown out of the crying for the moon habit. In fact, she honestly admits she has "taken her own measure" and knows that a better thing for her is just the everyday, commonplace existence of an ordinary mortal. She is still ambitious, and her little measure of talent, far from growing less, has grown greater, for genius was never known to have been killed or controlled by disappointments, though through them its workings have been often retarded.

The girl who wrote nice verses and pretty little stories cried for the moon as it appeared to her long vision and got it only to find it was not all she dreamed it would be after all.

It is far and away a better thing to be independent and individual than it is to select some one to follow, to imitate and cry and sigh because you cannot copy that one exactly.

Dress as well as you can, but no better than you can afford simply because it is your wish to imitate your fashionable neighbor. Gather about you as many pretty things in your home as you can, but remember that true happiness is not dependent upon a gilt chair with a brocade cushion, one built so much as it is upon the cheerfulness and good temper of the woman who presides over the household. One of the moon's most often cried for is a handsomely fitted dwelling. And, alas, I have seen this moon attained through much sacrifice and then prove dead sea fruit.

Laugh with the merry little brook, smile with the blue skies of April, keep your health and count your blessings and in this way allow yourself no time to fall into the crying for the moon habit, which I am told is an increasing habit among American women.—Margaret Hahn in St. Louis Republic.

Have Bedroom Slippers.

The mother of little children should not think of getting along without bedroom slippers, which may be easily and quickly slipped on at night when she is obliged to get out of bed to wait upon the little ones. I improved a pair by taking the tops of an old pair of wool hose, rounding off the toes and sewing on cloth soles. They are not very pretty, but they are comfortable. I have heavy woolen stockings which are kept loosely for the children to wear in bed on cold winter nights. Some of the little folks do not need them, but there are others whose feet seem never to be warm unless wrapped up in woolen, and I know, from personal experience, how much more readily one can get to sleep if the feet are warm.—Martha Thrift in Housekeeper.

WATER DRINKING.

Some of the Good Effects It Has on the Human System.

Hygienists and physicians alike preach the therapeutic nature of water, raising it far above any drug in materia medica in its curative remedial value. Scarcely any up to date physician fails to give it a prominent place in his practice.

Water is not merely a mere mechanical conveyor of poisons out and foods in. It is a powerful vital stimulant, a directly appointed agent which nature uses in her healing work.

"Water drinking," says the editor of a medical journal, "is an internal cathartic. It cleans the fluids of the body in which the cells and fibers are bathed. It purifies the body by diluting the medium in which it lives. By the free use of water the movement of the mass of liquid in which the living elements of the human body perform their work is quickened and the stream of life runs clear and pure."

"To the great thinning of the blood, which follows copious water drinking, is also the remarkably increased activity of the kidneys, skin and bowels which it produces."

"In rheumatism cold water is useful as a means of diluting the blood so it can dissolve and carry out of the body a larger amount of uric acid and allied substances. As a means for encouraging activity of the skin and kidneys it is always useful in this disease."

Water drinking is an essential adjunct to exercise, baths and other means employed to reduce obesity. It dissolves and carries out of the system the broken down material made by the treatment.

To increase the volume of the blood and introduce permanently a larger proportion of water a small quantity should be taken at frequent intervals; the amount taken during the day may sum up several pints, but the quantity taken at any one time should not exceed four to six ounces. This quantity may be taken every hour or hour and a half to advantage. The temperature of the water should ordinarily be about 70 degrees F. Very cold water is indicated only in fevers, constipation and hypopnea.

The quantity must depend on the effect desired. A thirst for water is an indication that it may be taken with advantage. In fevers a glass may be taken every hour. For inactivity of the bowels one or two glasses of cold water should be taken in the morning on arising and as much more on retiring.

"Chronic biliousness," continues our authority, "is nothing more than chronic toxemia (poisoning), resulting from the putrefaction of food in the alimentary canal. It requires the free use of water. Eight or ten glasses a day would be more than enough for such cases."

"Copious water drinking is one of the most effective means of relieving a common cold by aiding the elimination of tissue poisons, which, accumulating, give rise to the difficulty known as a 'cold.' In short, it seems that if we would be healthy, hearty and happy we ought to drink freely of that nonintoxicating but exhilarating beverage known as 'Adam's ale.'"

A MOORISH STORY-TELLER.

How the Professional Piker, His Calling, Is the Market Square.

A war in the English Illustrated Magazine listened to a professional story teller plying his calling in a Moorish market. By half past 6 in the morning the great square beyond the city gates, where the market is held, was crowded. Patient Arabs sat in front of their stock of fresh vegetables and maize or presided over a supply of fruit. Beggars claimed the attention of passers by.

Travelling down the dusty road from the interior came a man without whom the market would be incomplete. He was the story teller. He passed the beggars with a simple "Allah will provide!" that convinced them he had no intention of sharing the responsibility of providing and made his way to a corner beyond the circle now occupied by a caravan.

There he seated himself comfortably on the ground. Within five minutes there was a circle of men and boys round him. A brisk conversation ensued. The story teller directed the tale they were giving the tale teller directions concerning the tale they wanted to hear. This is very often done. The audience, knowing that the story teller is by their support, is at times very definite in its demands, and not infrequently a plot must be altered in course of narration.

Soon the story started, and no knowledge of Arabic was necessary to understand that the narrator was a man of parts. The audience was deeply moved, the interest extending from the gray beard of the old man to the 60 years old boy.

Later in the morning, when the sun's rays were nearly vertical and most of the business was suspended, the story teller was still at his labors, and his audience had grown until the enlarged circle was four or five deep; the inner rings sitting down, the others standing. Traders had left their stocks in charge of children and beggars had forgotten their wares and were eagerly listening to the tale which one who understood explained to be about a beautiful princess, a wicked djinn, an old husband and a young man.

The story appeared to be more engrossing than wholesome in tone. To the excitement of his audience, to their cries of pleasure, their constant smiles and occasional jokes, the story teller was to all appearance indifferent. He seemed to take an intense delight in the development of his romance and never showed the slightest sign of sharing the emotions of his hearers.

Sharing the Glory.

"Hendetta isn't one of those women who want to put a husband in the background and make him stay there."

"No, indeed!"

"Is she trying to make you prominent?"

"Yes. She is going to deliver a lecture to her club on how to manage husbands, and she wants me to come up on the platform and be an example."—Washington Star.

To Have Him Pass.

"Well, good night," said Mr. Borem, finally breaking away. "I've had a most enjoyable evening. By the way, I expect to pass your house tomorrow evening, and I thought I might."

"I'll be delighted," said she quickly. "Good night."—Exchange.

BOAST OF A LANDED GENTRY.

Mexicans Owing With Wonderful Tenacity to Their Broad Acres.

The tenacity with which the great estates of Mexico are maintained intact by the old families of this country appears all the more remarkable when it is considered how generally all lines of industry, aside from that of the farmer, are in the hands of foreigners. The dry goods trade of Mexico is controlled by the French, the Spaniards of Mexico are the country's grocers, the Germans do the hardware business, the railroads are controlled by Americans and English, the bank stock of Mexico is largely owned in France, Germany and England, and a large percentage of the industrial concerns of the country belong to foreigners. Not so, however, the agricultural resources of Mexico.

During recent years a great deal of American capital has entered the republic for investment in tropical plantations; particularly in southern Mexico, but the great bulk of Mexico's rural land is held in the form of extensive haciendas or ranches, often hundreds of thousands of acres in extent. Some of these estates have been handed down in the same families for nearly 400 years, and a few titles tracing their origin back to the first grants from the king of Spain after the conquest. The aristocracy of Mexico is counted among these landed proprietors, many of whom enjoy princely incomes from their plantations, which often produce a great variety of products and embrace several manufacturing plants.

It is largely due to the fact that the tax upon land of this character is comparatively very light that these estates have so long remained undivided, as in most instances only a small per cent of their area is under cultivation. As in many states the levy is practically only a tax upon products the unused acres are no great burden. They are actually these who desire to see these tracts tax-

The Very Common War.

"I understand you whipped my boy this morning," the angry father said, striding into the schoolroom after the children had been dismissed.

"Yes, sir, I did," the terrified teacher answered. "But I did not whip him severely."

"That's what I'm kidding about," he rejoined. "You didn't hurt him at all. Now, look here, sir, I'm one of the largest taxpayers in this school district, and my boy is entitled to as good a whipping as you give any other boy. Understand that if you slight him again, you'll hear from me in a way you won't like. Good afternoon, sir."—Chicago Tribune.

A DESPERATE DUEL.

NO SURGEONS NOR SECONDS IN ATTENDANCE AT THIS FIGHT.

The Story of How "Bull-dog" Kelly and Mahone the Stockman Settled Their Little Affair of Honor on the Lonely Plains.

If French gentlemen thirsting for each other's blood really wish to know how to settle for honor's sake, let them visit Medicine Hat and hear the story of how "Bull-dog" Kelly and Mahone the stockman fought for theirs. It is only necessary to say of Kelly that once in his life he figured in a celebrated international law controversy which the then secretary of state, Thomas F. Bayard, ended. His mother was a friend of John A. Logan.

Mahone was nothing more nor less than a frontier cattleman. He was a Kelly first at Calgary, where in a dispute over cards an enemy arose between them. Subsequently they clashed in the Medicine Hat country, and Mahone wrongfully accused Kelly of stealing stock. Kelly would have killed him then and there but for the interference of the Canadian mounted police. Subsequently one of these policemen suggested to him that he challenge Mahone to a duel, and that they have it out alone. Kelly evidently thought well of the suggestion, for a day or two later, meeting Mahone in that isolated and abused town, Medicine Hat, he quietly told him that he was not to see him the next morning as the sun rose on the Tortured trail and prove to him with a gun that he was not a thief. Mahone snatched his head in acceptance of the challenge, and that was all there was to the challenge.

Kelly slept in a ranchhouse that night but was up before dawn saddling his horse. He carried for arms two six shooters and a short bladed knife. He rode away from the ranch in the heavy darkness before daybreak, headed for the Tortured trail. He was a six-footer, sandy haired, heavily jawed and called "Bull-dog" because he had once pitted himself against an animal of that title and whipped him in a free fight. His courage was extreme from the brute point of view. To illustrate this, years after this event, when he was on trial for his life in a murder case, he was instructed by his attorney to tell one of the witnesses against him in the courtroom if he attempted to give cowardly testimony.

"You listen to him," said the attorney, "and if he tries to testify as to certain things let him have it."

Kelly, as a prisoner, entered the courtroom with a knife up his sleeve, and he sat through all the proceedings with his eyes on the man he was to watch. The latter grew restless and when he took the stand broke down completely and did not stand the prosecution at all. He flinched without knowing it that it testified as the prosecution believed he would Kelly would then and there end him. And this all took place not in a frontier court, but in a court of the United States government.

Well, Kelly rode down the trail as gay in spirit as a man of his nature could be. He did not whistle, for, whistling men are said to bring bad luck, he abused his horse, and that was the best of evidence that he felt well. He watched the dark bands closer and closer to the plain grasses, the stars grew less brilliant until suddenly in the east it was as if a curtain was drawn up and the day came with the call of wild birds and a wind which rose from the west to meet the sun. He glanced toward Medicine Hat and from that point, out of the black and gray of the horizon, rode Mahone, armed as his opponent was. They were a mile apart when they recognized each other. Kelly reined in his horse and waited. Mahone came on. No surgeons nor seconds were in attendance. Medicine Hat was asleep. Mahone drew nearer, moving a little to the left as if to elude about Kelly. The latter suddenly dropped under his horse's neck and fired. His bullet just clipped the mane of Mahone's horse, but it was a wild whoop and a flash of light, and Mahone was down. Both horses were now in motion, and the shots came thick and fast. Kelly's animal went down first, screaming from a bullet through his lungs. His rider intrenched behind him. Mahone made a charge and lost his own horse, heading getting a bullet through his left arm. He, too, was down. In a few moments one of his shots and Kelly filled his eyes with blood. He wiped himself off and tied a handkerchief over the mark.

Each was afraid to start out from his horse, but in the course of half an hour their ammunition was exhausted, and then they threw their pistols from them and came toward each other through the grass with two good knives out. Kelly now had been shot three times. They visibly staggered as they played for the first chance to close in. At last the knives crossed, and Kelly got the first thrust and missed, for which awkwardness Mahone gave him a savage cut. They backed and stabbed at each other until neither could move, and the small population of Medicine Hat, getting wind of what was going on, rode out and brought them in for medical attendance. Kelly, besides his bullet wounds, had 11 knife cuts and Mahone had 15. They were put to bed in the same room, and the same doctor attended both. For days they lay almost touching each other, and neither spoke. Medicine Hat had been unable to decide which had the better of the fight, and it seemed as if it would be resumed if both lived to recover from it. But one morning Mahone raised himself painfully from his mattress, and he put out his hand to Kelly and said:

A UNIQUE EXPERIENCE.

Aeronauts in the Heart of a Thunder-devoted Escape Chart.

To be in the very heart of a thunder cloud and escape unharmed is an experience if not a unique experience. That is what happened to the Rev. John M. Hall, a London aeronaut, on November 1, 1904.

Mr. Hall, in telling of an experience from the start a sudden and passing change took place in our atmosphere. Our environment, which had appeared absolutely calm and clear, began changing with the rapidity of a transformation scene. Below us the few hundred feet that separated us from death began filling in with a blue haze of transparent, but growing paler by inches, while ahead, as also right and left, the horizon at the level of our eye and under posed a dense fog barrier of a blue haze. Overhead of course the sky grew darker and darker, and the whole scene was entirely hidden by the huge silver globe. At this time we were being swept along on our course, which remained sensibly unaltered in direction, at a speed which we subsequently were able to fix at approximately 40 miles an hour.

"To ourselves the full significance of these circumstances was not immediately apparent, but the onlookers at the point of departure, the tower and the clouds, saw some miles in our wake—clearly detected the approach of a heavy thunder pack and, as they reasonably asserted, coming against the wind. It towered above the balloon, now seen projected plainly against its face. It came on rapidly and assumed formidable proportions. The balloon was flying due west at its speed, and apparently no great distance overhead the thundercloud was progressing at a moderate velocity not accurately determined, but due east or directly opposed to the surface current.

Minister Wu should be careful how he uses his bow in thinking about his superiors or he will lose it when he returns.

A giddy couple of Kansas, the groom being 85 and the bride 85, have separated after a honeymoon of four days. The bride will sue for a divorce. The old man is a disappointment to the creature of his choice. She says: "The story that my husband could cut cords of wood a day is not true. He cannot cut the kindling needed to light the fire. I had to get up and light the fire every morning, which is a husband's duty." And this is in the land made famous by the hatchet of a woman.

Orville J. Nave, a chaplain of the army who has the record for making more objections to assignments given him than any officer of the service, is at last on his way to the Philippines, after nearly two years' controversy with the authorities over this detail. Chaplain Nave has been ordered to report for duty at Manila half a dozen times, and on each occasion he has protested, and through influence managed to escape. He has been constantly on duty at Fort McPherson, near Atlanta, for two years. Six weeks ago he received orders for the sixth time to join some regiment in the Philippines. As was expected at the war department, he entered objection, and his friends were confident that he would again have his orders countermanded. This time the officials hinted that he was to obey instructions without further protest or be court-martialed. The chaplain obeyed orders, and sailed Saturday on the transport Thomas for Manila to join the 3d infantry.

European military men are standing aghast before an achievement of the United States Ordnance corps and of the Watervliet arsenal, near Troy—our big sixteen inch gun, which is regarded by them as a thing as typically American as a thirty one story office building or a railroad 4,000 miles long. The question raised concerning the gun by foreign ordnance experts is a very simple one—namely whether it is not too big. It weighs, finished, about 400,000 pounds, and it will throw, to a distance of nearly twenty one miles, a projectile five feet four inches long. It can be fired only thirty or forty times altogether, for the barrel will not live through more discharges than that; so that the big gun cannot afford to spend much of its life in target shooting to test its aim and efficiency. It is easy to question the desirability of such a gun; in fact, it is a grave question, says the New York Mail and Express. "The experience of our navy seems to indicate that twelve inch pieces are quite big enough for effectiveness, and that our dependence in time of trouble must be upon smaller guns. But there is no telling; some day the sixteen inch gun of Watervliet may show the knockout blow in a gun duel between the leaves weight nations in the world."

John Kimberly Munford has written in the May World's Work an authoritative and interesting account of Russia's political methods, particularly as shown by the gradual assimilation of Persia and the struggle for Manchuria. Striking pictures illustrate the text, and a map shows Russia's rapid encroachment of India. "Peacefully," says Mr. Munford, "blindly, but relentlessly and with the Biblical wisdom of the serpent, by skillful utilization of the native elements, as well as by the introduction of new forces, a Russian leaven is being distributed throughout the entire Persian loaf. The murmuring of the vanquished in the countries the Russian has overcome is never wholly stilled; the prophecy of revolt is continuous, but the Cossack is a relative of wondrous efficacy. The Russian knows the peoples he holds away over. He conciliates native agencies at every step. He assures men of the friendship of Russia. He annihilates memories; he wipes peoples from regrets. He plays upon their vanity until it is transposed into loyalty; he grafts upon his already conglomerate speech something of the language of the conquered, and the next generation speaks with the tongue of Moscow. In brief, he finds a barbarism, and moving, leaves a Russian. That is what he will ultimately do with Persia. The Russian believes in his mission. That he aspires to the possession of all Asia there seems no longer any room for doubt. There are great obstacles in his path; he removes them. He has one way in Manchuria, another in Iran. But he is building warships as fast as he is taking up land in Asia. He anchors them now in Port Arthur, next in Russia and Bender Abbas. How soon will the searchlights of his cruisers sweep the harbors of Calcutta and Bombay?

RAILROAD FIGURES.

Items of Local Interest in the Commissioners' Report to Governor.

In the annual report of the state railroad commissioners to the governor are the following items of local interest: "The year ending June 30, 1900, was a fairly prosperous one for our railroads. Their receipts show a gratifying increase over the next preceding one, as follows: The Atlantic and St. Lawrence, from $1,175,754.85 in 1899 to $1,279,061.39 in 1900; the Boston and Maine, from $20,029,248.11 to $22,801,704.44; the Maine Central, from $5,049,888.16 to $5,640,728.68; the Fitchburg, from $7,647,080.16 to $8,071,440.66.

"The excess of the receipts of these four systems over the operating expenses was $10,531,535.45 in 1899, and $11,477,031.18 in 1900.

"The railroad returns published in this volume disclose that there are 6546 New Hampshire stockholders in New Hampshire railroads, and that they own stock of a par value of $15,639,700. The amount of railroad bonds owned by New Hampshire people cannot be ascertained, but as they are favorite investments for our savings banks and other moneyed institutions, as well as individuals, it is reasonable to suppose.

IT'S CHILD'S PLAY

To treat a woman for a disease year after year and give her no permanent relief. Yet that has been the case with scores of women who have doctored for year after year unhealed, to find at last that a few bottles of Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription would have saved years of suffering and a great deal of money.

"For the regulation of the periods, the stopping of disagreeable drains, the healing of inflammation and ulceration, and the cure of female weakness, there is no medicine can equal Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It makes weak women strong and sick women well."

"About five years ago I had very poor health," writes Mrs. R. E. Walker of Fitchburg, Mass. "After doctoring four years with our town doctors they gave me up, and said they had done all they could. I had been confined to my bed half my time; the other half could hardly drag around. I had much pain in my back and abdomen. I could not sleep for more than a few minutes. My feet were cold or burning, and my periods came too often. The doctor said it was change of life, so I had heard of Dr. Pierce's medicine, my husband gave me a bottle of 'Favorite Prescription.' I took it and it helped me in some ways, so I wrote to you and followed your advice. I commenced 'Favorite Prescription,' Golden Medical Discovery and the Pills, as I was so completely at the time and pills would weaken me so that I would have to go to bed. To the great surprise of everybody I got well, and I feel as if I were a new woman. I never thought you would be here now. But I can say it was your medicine, which no doubt is the best in the world. I had no use for doctors since I tried your medicine."

that the ann is not less than $10,000. Nearly all the stock sells in market for much more than its par value, most of it for twice as much, and a fixed income from it, as well as the interest on the bonds, is guaranteed by the Boston and Maine.

The legislature of 1899 granted charters for eight electric street roads, and as many more unissued ones granted by preceding legislatures are alive. Not a rod of road has been produced by either of the corporations thus created. Nevertheless, street railway development has proceeded, under the General Laws of 1895, and there have been material additions to the total mileage reported by the companies making returns. The most important of these, because it was an experiment out of which there promises to come most of the construction of the future, was the building by the Boston and Maine of an electric road in the streets of Portsmouth and through the towns of Free and North Hampton, to a connection with the Exeter, Hampton and Amesbury road at the Hampton line, a distance of sixteen and a half miles. This road parallels the steam tracks of the Boston and Maine, and its success as a dividend earner was very problematical, but its business greatly exceeded expectations and its net receipts the last half of the year were such that it is to be extended through other streets in Portsmouth and to Newcastle next spring; under a charter granted by the court. The Boston and Maine has also taken the preliminary steps towards procuring from the court a charter which will permit it to parallel its own tracks with a street road from Concord to Nashua, and is contemplating the construction of its Portsmouth and Dover branch into an electric road.

"The Exeter, Hampton and Amesbury, into which the Exeter and Hampton and Amesbury have been consolidated, now has 22.56 miles of track, against 15.43 in 1899. It has also made large investments in a casino, hotel, and other terminals at Hampton beach. The mileage of the Laconia, Chester and Derry, Concord, Springfield, and Union of Dover remains as it was a year ago.

"The only dividends declared during the year were 4 1/2 per cent by the Exeter, Hampton and Amesbury and 8 per cent by the Manchester, but interest on all outstanding bonds was promptly paid. All the roads except the Portsmouth, whose returns cover but a few weeks of operation, show a surplus above operating expenses and fixed charges for the year ending June 30.

THE AMERICAN GIRL.

A beautiful play will be presented at Music hall next Tuesday evening. It is entitled The American Girl, and was written by H. Gratton Donnelly, author of Natural Gas, Ship Ahoy, Darkest Russia, etc. The American Girl is a comedy drama of the highest type, and appeals to all classes alike. One critic speaking of the play, said: "After a man sees The American Girl he believes that there are no women on earth so plucky and noble as the women on this side of the ocean; after a woman sees this play she must feel more compassion for her sex than she ever did before."

The company is one of uniform strength, introducing as its leading figure Mr. George F. Hall, whose reputation as a finished and versatile comedian is well known. The support includes Frederick Sullivan, Frank A. Burne, George A. Loney, G. Frank Weatherly, Miss Frankie St. John, Miss Olive North, Miss Millie Stevens, Miss Dorothy LaMar, and the child artists, Gladie Russell and Daisy Stampo. The latter pair are remarkably clever, and imbue the third act of the play with a rare charm.

MILDRED HOLLAND COMING.

Mildred Holland will be seen in this city in the near future in The Power Behind the Throne, which has made her famous.

Mildred Holland is a great actress.

It has taken her years of hard work, incessant study and almost unremitting toil to reach that position, but her reward is an assured place in the ranks of theatrical stars.

The role of Aria, which she plays in The Power Behind the Throne, is one requiring consummate mastery of dramatic art. In the brief period of the girl's existence which is portrayed upon the stage, the girl runs the gamut of human emotions. First she is seen as a light hearted lass, daughter of Herr Unter, the music teacher, bubbling over with the very joy of existence and apparently happy in the possession of her father's love. When comes the interposition of a stern father's will, the almost unbearable grief, and, finally, threatened dishonor that is worse than death. How this frail woman imitates the different emotions is rather hard to imagine, until one witnesses her work.

WEST'S GREAT MINSTRELS.

The theatre-goers of the present day have comedy and music especially, in a minstrel performance. This has been proven time after time, and this season William H. #### OBSEQUES.

The funeral services of Mrs. Sarah E. Hall, widow of William F. Hall, were held on Tuesday afternoon at her late home on Ansel street, and were largely attended by friends and relatives. Rev. George E. Leighton, pastor of the Universalist church, officiated, and interment took place in the family lot in Harmony Grove cemetery.

The funeral of Mrs. Annie M. Donnell was held at the home on MoDough street at two o'clock this after-charges of a couple of weeks ago. The money necessary for their employment became available by reason of the rainy weather interfering with the work of many of the men engaged in outside work, and who had to quit.

U. S. S. Prairie will be drydocked at Simpson's week after next, the government having engaged that drydock for about three weeks for the work. The ship's bottom will be cleaned and painted and all the necessary under water work to be done upon her will be completed with this docking. Naval Constructor Baxter is on the sick list with a cold, and the exact details will not be positively arranged until his return to duty.

Two plans for the extension of the naval prison at the yard have been sent to Washington. One provides for 160 cells and will require but an additional story to the present building. The other will be a lateral extension and require the entire building and the removal of the general storekeeper's offices. The former is preferred, as it will be more economical and permit of even further extension in the future, and will not require any shakeup of the storekeeper's department.

The Old, Old Story.
Go—going—gone!
Gone, alas!
And the house is filled with Gloomy gloom!
The sunshine even halts
Outside
Upon the threshold of
Her room.
Oh, world of trials and Tribulations!
We were but yesterday
Free from all care and pain, but
Once more, alas,
All now is changed—
The servant girl has packed up

EVACUATION OF CHINA.

Ten Thousand French Soldiers Will Leave in May.

THE EXPEDITION AGAINST LIU.

Believed in Peking That It Will Be Called Off—A Hung Chang Thinks Chinese Will Withdraw to Shanai Province.

Peking, April 23.—General Voron, the commander of the French troops in China, has informed General Chaffee that 10,000 French soldiers will leave China next May.

Li Hung Chang believes that the Chinese troops under General Liu will be withdrawn over the boundary marking the territory defined by Field Marshal von Waldersee as the sphere of operations for the allies, as the governor of Shanai province received telegraphic instructions nearly a week ago ordering their withdrawal. The governor could have conveyed these orders to the troops in question by last Friday at the latest.

The majority of the French and German newspaper correspondents accompanying the expedition directed against General Liu and which has been mobilizing at Pao-tung-fu returned to Peking yesterday, believing that the expedition would be called off.

Hsi Liang, formerly governor of the province of Shanai, has been appointed governor of the province of Hupoh. The foreign consuls at Hankow, capital of the province of Hupoh, have protested this appointment to Chang Chi Tung, viceroy of Hankow, and have sent him a telegram advising him to delay proceeding in the matter of Hsi Liang's appointment.

The numerous appointments of Chinese with pronounced anti-foreign tendencies is causing comment at Peking. Even the foreign ministers admit that so many appointments of this character are ill advised, while the missionaries and other civilians are alarmed for the future.

Mr. Rockhill's Opinion.
It is the opinion of Mr. Rockhill, the American special commissioner, that the foreign troops may now commence leaving China with perfect safety. On the other hand, the announcement that 10,000 French troops are to leave in May causes fear among the French residents, and this fear is greater among the French native converts to Christianity, who inform the priests that they are daily threatened with what will happen to them when the foreigners leave.

The views of the foreign ministers on the withdrawal of the troops are not shared by the great majority of the foreign residents. The ministers aver that some of these latter have business reasons and that others would have to vacate the fine buildings they are now occupying rent free when the troops go.

A person from Sian-fu who is closely connected with the court denies that General Tung Fuh Siang is in a state of open rebellion. The person in question thinks that the missionaries who reported that he was in rebellion must have heard accounts of his harsh treatment of bandits falling into his hands. Tung Fuh Siang has frequently disobeyed the orders of the court. When 5,000 troops were withdrawn from his command last January, he should have returned their rifles and ammunition. This he failed to do. Before he left for Kansu he obtained an audience with the dowager empress of China. Upon this occasion Tung Fuh Siang said to the empress:

"All that your servant has done has been to obey the orders of the court. He will die upon the battlefield in your service. If because of the commands of the foreigners your servant were committed to death, he would die unwillingly."

To this the empress replied:

"Let your heart be at peace. I would rather lose my rivers and mountains than you. I will surely devise a plan for your protection."

The same informant says that the court advisers are not in accord.

Attitude of Prominent Chinamen.
Lu Chuan Lin, a notorious reactionary and president of the board of trade, argues in favor of subduing the barbarians, while others advise delay in returning to Peking. Only Wong Wong Shao and Shih Chia Nui urge immediate acceptance of the terms offered privately. Two of the foreign payers have separately agreed to extend to the court the full protection they have.

At a recent meeting of the council both the emperor and the empress were frequently. The dowager empress said that each day of absence was a day when she could neither eat nor sleep in peace. The emperor said that Peking was the home of his ancestors and that he could not bear to abandon it.

Sir Robert Hart's plan for the increase of the revenue of China would bring in 20,000,000 taels annually, but the foreigners and business men of China object to this plan already, saying that under it the foreign business houses will pay the greater portion of the indemnity.

Stock Exchange Record Broken.

New York, April 23.—Records went to pieces on the Stock Exchange yesterday. Never before have the brokers done such an enormous volume of business. The number of shares sold was 2,362,737, more than 200,000 over the record made last Friday.

State Printing Bill Passed.

Albany, April 23.—The senate has passed the Fordeys state printing bill, which carries out the governor's idea restricting the public printing contracts so that there may be more economy. It is expected that the bill will save the state $60,000 annually.

M. DELCASSE IN RUSSIA.

French Foreign Minister to Be Received by the Czar.

St. Petersburg, April 23.—The French foreign minister, M. Delcasse, has arrived here from Paris, which city he left April 20. A series of dinners has been arranged in his honor, and the czar will receive him in audience at Tzarsoe-Selo.

In the course of the afternoon M. Delcasse had a conversation lasting an hour with Count Lamsdorf, the Russian foreign minister.

On his arrival M. Delcasse was greeted by Marquis de Montebello, French ambassador to Russia, and M. Derewitsky, second counselor of the Russian foreign office. This fact sufficiently disposes of the impression that Russia regards the journey as an epoch making event. No programme has been arranged; but it is understood that the usual courtesies will be accorded M. Delcasse and that among his hosts at dinner will be Count Lamsdorf, Marquis de Montebello and probably other high personages.

Apparently the Russian official world is glad to see him, but does not regard the journey as essential to the stability of the Franco-Russian alliance or to the transaction of current business. It is recalled that M. Delcasse's visit to Count Muraviev, former Russian minister of foreign affairs, had no great results.

It is said that M. Delcasse desires to dispose of a mass of detailed questions which might require long correspondence. It is authoritatively denied that a Russian loan is in anywise involved or that the Chinese problem requires discussion under four eyes, and it is not believed that M. Delcasse would take such extraordinary means to produce a change in the personnel of the Russian embassy in Paris, as the French press asserts.

The official view of the trip, as it appears, is that M. Delcasse aims to create an impression at home that he has saved the nation with a view to inheriting the position of M. Waldeck-Rousseau, the French premier.

Cuba Commission in Florida.

Jacksonville, Fla., April 23.—The Cuban assembly commission en route to Washington to confer with President McKinley on the relations of the United States and Cuba arrived at 7 o'clock last night over the Florida East Coast railway from Miami. They will proceed to Washington this morning in a special car on the Seaboard Airline's Metropolitan limited train which will arrive in Washington at 8:15 tomorrow morning. In the party are General Domingo Mendez Capote, president of the commission; General Pedro B. Betancourt; General Rafael M. Porcucio; Dr. Diego Tamayo and Dr. Pedro Gonzalez Llorca. These are the members of the commission. They are accompanied by Pedro M. Echeiza, interpreter; Colonel M. M. Coronado, editor of La Discusion; Marquez Starnes, representative of the United Press of Cuba and correspondent of El Mundo. The party will stay at the Shoreham in Washington.

New York Charter Signed.

Albany, April 23.—The senate yesterday afternoon re-passed the New York city charter by a party vote after some discussion on Senator Donnelly's motion that the mayor's veto message be read by the clerk to the senate, which motion was defeated. Senator Egan (Dem., Bronx) voted with the Republicans to pass the charter over the mayor's veto. The measure was signed last night by Governor Odell. It is chapter 408 of the laws of 1901. The secretary of state's office remained open until after 6 o'clock to receive the measure.

Searching for Sawyer's Body.

Lakeview, Conn., April 23.—The third day's search for the body of Otis Sawyer, drowned last Thursday in the lake here, has been, like the two preceding it, entirely unsuccessful. The submarine electric light was carried to the bottom, and with it the diver covered the entire lake bed in the vicinity of the spot where the young man went down, at times working in mud up to the waist. It is thought that the body has sunk in the mud on the lake bottom, making recovery almost impossible.

Extradition Ratifications.

Washington, April 23.—Secretary Hay and Lord Paquicof, the British ambassador, have exchanged ratifications of the treaty ratified by the senate last session amending the British extradition treaty by the addition of three articles, the most important of which is one defining as an extraditable crime the destruction of railroad property.

Foreman His Death.

Middleton, N. Y., April 23.—Joseph Malzahn, a brakeman in the Ontario and Western yard, was killed in attempting to jump on to the rear of a switch engine. Before going to work in the morning he expressed a fear of death because of a dream.

Water Famine in Colombia.

Colon, April 23.—The continued drought has produced a water famine throughout the isthmus, especially among the poorer classes. The railroads free distribution daily helps to allay the suffering.

Noricians Take British Bonds.

London, April 23.—Of the £30,000,000 applied for prior to the issue of the British war loan prospectus it is reported that J. S. Morgan & Co. had taken £10,000,000 for the firm and friends.

Another Commandant Gives Up.

Pretoria, April 23.—The force under Commandant Boksbach, composed of 106 men, with wagons and rifles, has surrendered near Middelburg, Transvaal Colony.

ROMAGNOLI ARRESTED.

Berlin Police Capture the Alleged Anarchist.

AUTHORITIES ON THE LOOKOUT.

Emperor, Informed of Plot to Kill Him, Requested Details, but Did Not Want the Empress to Learn of the Conspiracy.

Berlin, April 23.—The Post states that the anarchist Romagnoli, who embarked on board the North German Lloyd steamer Halle at Buenos Ayres on March 27 for Bremen, has just been arrested.

The police are not yet aware who the other anarchists are who drew lots to assassinate the Kaiser.

With reference to the statements made from the United States of a plot said to have been concocted against the Emperor William and other European rulers by anarchists in Argentina and New Jersey, extreme reticence is observed in official circles in Berlin. After careful investigation in a reliable quarter it has been learned that the Berlin police presidency issued an order on April 6 for the arrest whenever or wherever caught of the alleged anarchist Rodolfo Romagnoli, alias Romagnoli, alias Langkuech Mueller. The order simultaneously requested all inland and foreign authorities to assist in apprehending Romagnoli. Photographs of the alleged anarchist, with a minute description after the Bertillon method, were furnished for identification.

The Alleged Plot.

The information received by the Berlin authorities was that Romagnoli had been formally chosen by the alleged nest of conspirators in Paterson, N. J., to murder Emperor William. They were furthermore informed that he left Buenos Ayres March 27 on board the North German Lloyd steamship Halle for Bremen. Whether this information is correct they have no means of knowing, but since a portion of it came officially they are inclined to give it credence.

Emperor William has been advised as to the situation and has issued strict orders to the president of the Berlin police, Baron von Windheim, to keep him informed as to all similar news, but that under no condition is the matter to be brought to the attention of the empress. It is a fact that for months the Berlin police have kept a very close watch upon known anarchists in the city and an unusually careful surveillance of arrivals known or suspected to be of anarchist affiliations. Antonio Porporello, who was here until a few days ago, fled to Berne, where he was arrested. The Berlin authorities seem to know nothing about alleged plots against the Emperor Nicholas and King Victor Emmanuel.

Counterfeiters Den Rained.

Pittsburg, April 23.—Secret service operators raided the fruit store and home of Tony Thomas, Wilkensburg. The place gave evidence of being the headquarters of a gang of counterfeiters. The men arrested are Giuseppe Millette, Michael Stoudd, Giuseppe Angello and Antonio Thomas. The men assert their innocence, but counterfeit money was found on two of them and enough evidence collected in the search of the place to convict the others. The bad coins all bore the date of 1896 and were dollars, half dollars, quarters and dimes. There was a small furnace, with crucibles for melting the metal, plaster of paris for making dies, mold cases and several files for smoothing coins.

Tennis Slay Five Children.

Chartres, France, April 23.—This town is excited about the brutal murder of five children and the attempted murder of their father, a farmer. Two tramps entered the house in the absence of the father and killed four girls and a boy with knives and cut-throats. The father, returned while the murderers were robbing the house. They heard him enter the courtyard, attacked him and after a desperate struggle left him for dead with four stab wounds in the head. The murderers then escaped with a small amount of money.

Swept Over Niagara Falls.

Niagara Falls, April 23.—Men at work on a new factory on the bank of the Niagara report that they saw a man in a rowboat swept over the falls. They say the man evidently tried to cross the river, but found the current too strong. He turned his boat and tried to get back to shore, but the awful current was too much for him, and he was sucked into the upper rapids and carried over the Horseshoe shoals. Up to a late hour the story could not be confirmed.

McKeesport Labor Troubles.

McKeesport, Pa., April 23.—The differences which have existed between the employees of the McKeesport connecting railway and the officials of the company culminated yesterday, when a general strike of all the railroaders of the National Tube company in McKeesport was ordered. This includes all the railroads in the tube works, National Rolling mill, steel mill and Monongahela furnaces.

Man and Two Boys Drowned.

Marletta, O., April 23.—Three persons were drowned in the river here. A boat containing nine men was carried under a wharf by the swift current, and Joseph Everett, a glass worker, was drowned. The others were rescued. Later two boys named Hadley, aged 7 and 14, were drowned at the same place.

Skiff Captured; Two Drowned.

Pittsburg, April 23.—A skiff containing three persons who were catching driftwood in the Ohio river near Leightonville, Pa., captured, and two of the occupants were drowned.

OHIO RECEDING.

Great Damage Done In and About Marietta.

Cincinnati, April 23.—Alarm over the flood has almost ceased in the lower Ohio valley. The low water in the Ohio river below this city has allowed the floods from up the river to flow rapidly toward the Mississippi. The situation is still serious up the river, notably at Ripley, Maysville, Aberdeen, Portsmouth, Hanging Rock, Ironton, Ashland, Gettysburg, Huntington, Point Pleasant, Pomeroy, Marietta, Parkersburg and smaller places between Wheeling and Cincinnati. The crest of the flood is below Wheeling, and the farther down stream it gets the lower is the rate of rising.

At Marietta it is reported there has been almost a panic in the rural districts and the smaller towns of Washington county along the river, where there is no telegraph service, and no warning was had of the sudden rise. There was no loss of life or property. A great portion of Marietta is under water, and hundreds of acres in the country are covered. Many families have been driven from their homes to seek shelter on higher ground. The Muskingum river did not rise rapidly, and that saved the city.

Missouri Causes Great Damage.

St. Joseph, Mo., April 23.—The present rise of the Missouri river is causing irreparable havoc on the Kansas side and the towns of Wathean and Elwood are in danger of being swept away. The river has shifted to the west fully half a mile, causing great losses to bottom lands that before never have been under water.

Flood Subdues at Pittsburg.

Pittsburg, April 23.—The flood is over. Notwithstanding the fact that early in the day there was every evidence of a renewal of the high water, the announcement can be made unhesitatingly that there is not the least danger of another rise at this point nor above for the present.

Four Men Drowned.

Eric, Pa., April 23.—Four men belonging to the Rockefeller fleet laid up here in the upper bay went ashore in a yawlbout Sunday afternoon. They were drowned on their return, the first knowledge of the accident being the finding of the boat upside down. There was a fog on the bay and the sea was high. Those lost were: Percy B. Durand of Erie, Pa., the 17-year-old son of G. I. Durand of the steamer George Corbis; Thomas Gray, Charles Gunner both of Buffalo, and Guy Tapham of Painesville, O., the last three being engineers.

BURIED HER BABY ALIVE.

Horrible Crime of a Young Italian Girl.

CHILD RESCUED BEFORE DEATH.

Man Saw Francesca Stinella and Her Uncle Throwing Infant in Grave and Dug It Up—The World Be Murderers Arrested.

New York, April 23.—In a lonely ravine half a mile north of Yonkers, where the woods are dense and the rocky brook slips on in solitude, Patrick McEvoy, a laborer of Hastings village street department, discovered a young Italian girl yesterday burying alive her first born. She was crowding the walling child into a narrow, shallow grave, stuffing a shawl in the babe's mouth to silence its shrill appeal and stamping with nervous feet the loose clay she had heaped over the little one. Her babe was a boy 2 weeks old. Behind the frail girl, whose red hair, wan face and feverish eyes made a sharp contrast to the dingy black of her gown, stood a swarthy man with a big black mustache, a typical Sicilian of the peasant class.

Starting at them as the man, catching up a branch to throw on the fresh dirt, hurried the girl away. McEvoy heard a gasping cry come feeble and shrill from under the loose earth. He stooped in amazement and laid his ear to the loosely filled clods. Again came the choking cry from beneath. He dug with his hands in the soft dirt until he unearthed a tiny baby, its limbs doubled to cramp it in the small hole, its face black with choking.

Child Revived.

He hastened with the little one to Hastings, where Mrs. Barbara Bauer, matron of a kindergarten, revived it. An alarm was sent out for the two Italians, who were captured by the quick wit of Welsh, a motorman, whose car they boarded when they ventured from the woods in an attempt to get back to New York.

Before Magistrate Tompkins in Hastings the man gave the name of Pivro Cattanzuolo, living in Eighteenth street, Manhattan. He said he was an uncle of the girl, whose name was Francesca Stinella of the same address. They denied the crime, the man stolid as the interpreter questioned them, the girl fierce. They denied simply and denied in the face of what seemed to be absolute identification and sure proof. Bewildered at the horrible strangeness of the crime, the police locked them up in the jail at White Plains to await the action of the grand jury. The child is near the end of its little life.

$50,000 to Staats Zeitung's Staff.

New York, April 23.—Gerald Ottenlander's $50,000 legacy has been distributed to the employees of the Staats Zeitung, of which paper he was the proprietor. In his will Mr. Ottenlander directed that the money should be divided among all the employees, from office boy to managing editor, who had worked for one year on the paper. Each employee received a sum which amounted to 23 per cent of his annual salary. By mutual consent of the entire staff 5 per cent of the legacies was deducted and paid over to James P. Speyer, the banker, for the Ottenlander memorial fund.

Cost of Running New York City.

New York, April 23.—Comptroller Cole's report for the year 1900, just made public, shows that the city for running expenses and improvements spent last year the sum of $135,000,000. This includes not only the cost of maintaining the various departments of government, but the proceeds of bond issues to pay for permanent improvements. This sum is said to fairly represent the average yearly expenditure of the city. Including balances turned over to the credit of the city for last year the income of New York's treasury for 1900 was $178,877,206.38.

Cold Injures Southern Crops.

Snow is reported at Gainesville, in northern Georgia, the mountain tops being capped with white. Albany, in south Georgia, reports the estimated damage to cotton at 50 per cent and that watermelons and cantaloupes have been injured 25 per cent.

Annual Supply Bill Passed.

Albany, April 23.—The annual supply bill, which appropriates $1,900,000 for the expenses of the state government, passed the assembly last night. The amount appropriated is less than that of the supply bill of 1900. The supplemental supply bill will be introduced today. The total sum of the appropriation of the supply and the supplemental supply bills will be $2,000,000 less than the sum of the same measures of last session.

Seranton Silk Workers' Strike.

Seranton, Pa., April 23.—The Simpson Silk mill settled its strike yesterday, and 300 girls returned to work. It is expected the other mills will effect settlements within a few days. ## IN HUB MARKETS.

Quotations on the Leading Products in Demand.

Boston, April 23.—The butter market continues quiet. Still, the offerings of choice fresh creameries are not large, but the tone of the market is bearish, for the reason that a liberal supply is soon to begin to come forward. Quotations are considerably lower, with the suggestion that they may go even lower. Extra creamery, small pkgs, 21¢; northern, round lots, 20¢; western, 20¢; eastern, 20

PRAISE FROM GERMANY.

Former Chief Hichtorn and One of Our Ships Mentioned by Chief Kretschmer.

The following letter is addressed to the editor of the Scientific American and is reproduced in this paper with considerable satisfaction, the letter appearing in the last issue of the periodical first mentioned:

TO THE EDITOR OF THE SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN—In your issue of February 9 you were kind enough to discuss editorially my method of determining the military value of warships.

I thank you for your considerate article; since an international discussion of the question would do much to clear away present difficulties, and would lead to results which would be of value not only to the constructor and naval officer, but also to the financial department of every government.

I have concluded my work in the March number of the Marine Rundschau, so that anyone can now carry out the mathematical calculation necessary to determine a vessel's fighting efficiency. In the periodical in question, I have also ranked American ships very high in the list of war vessels, and given the "Alabama" the value:

13.05 PA or 1.1 PAD.

I consider these values correct. Perhaps they would be still higher if I had better data at my disposal. So far as the comparative constructional fighting values are concerned, or, in other words, the values per ton of displacement, the "Alabama" must stand high in the list. For the naval constructor these comparative values are of the utmost importance.

I cannot too highly compliment your worthy and famous Chief Constructor, Rear Admiral Hichtorn, on his skill in giving to a vessel of the small displacement of 11,525 tons so large a fighting value as 1.1, especially when it is considered that the "Mikasa," a vessel of 15,200 tons displacement, has but a fighting value of 1.0.

With the last sentence in your editorial I cannot agree. I hope that my last published essay may do much to clear this very important question of many obscurities, and that the possibility has been shown in constructing a fighting ship on mathematical and scientific principles.

Otto Kretschmer.

Chief Naval Constructor, German Imperial Navy, Berlin, March 19, 1901.

COULDN'T COME TO TIME.

Dover Will Not Have a Team and That is a Fact, Too.

The Chronicle this morning has the following in regard to the baseball situation:

Dover's cherished New England league base ball team has collapsed without playing a game. This, at least is what Boston despatches say, and there is no reason to doubt that the despatches are correct. At the New England league meeting at the Hub the other day, Manager Mahoney, who has been pushing the scheme in Dover, declared that the outlook in our up-river neighbor was still dubious, and a committee was at once appointed to look for another city in which to place the eighth team. It turns out, therefore, that the Chronicle was correct in stating some time ago, that Dover sports were disheartened to go down into their pockets to back a strong professional base ball team, and that our esteemed contemporary, the Democrat of that city, was altogether too previous in refuting the Chronicle's statement to that effect. We are sorry for Dover; disappointed ambition always awakens our sympathy, but we cannot help feeling gratified at this additional proof of the correctness of the Chronicle's sources of information.

Jack Leighton, the Newburyport promoter, would like to have a team from his city, in the league, to take the place left vacant by Dover. Newburyport has always given excellent support to amateur teams, and should be a good town for the league managers.

ONLY FOG BOUND.

Unknown Steamer Was Anchored Near Kennonbunkport, But Sailed Later.

A telephone message to the Herald from Wells Beach, early this morning, states that an unknown steamer was anchored two miles off the beach, near Kennonbunkport, last night, when the fog lifted from the coast, and that shortly after the fog cleared up, the steamer started down the coast, toward Portland, for which port she was evidently bound.

No steamer is ashore at any place between here and Biddeford, according to the best information from every point along the coast.

Without a doubt the craft seen off the coast was fog bound, and anchored for safety. Portland has also confused names, and had it "Bibb" rock, while the rock near where the steamer is reported to have been seen is Bibb rock.

The American Girl with George Hall is a favorite here.

Editors of Herald—Enclosed please find thirty-five votes for Col. John P. Tibbets, from an interested Portland friend.

PORTLAND, ME., Apr. 22, 1901.

The conditions of the contest are as follows, a most liberal offer:

The Portsmouth Herald agrees to send three residents of Portsmouth, who are either members of the Portsmouth fire department, a social club or of some secret society, to the Pan-American exposition, pay all their expenses from the time they leave, until they return, including a week in Buffalo, with board and lodging and admission to the exposition daily.

This offer beats anything ever announced by any newspaper in New England, and is so far above the expense and interest of a trip to the national inauguration that it cannot be mentioned in the same class.

The contest will not be restricted to gentlemen but will be open to any lady who is a member of the various secret societies or auxiliary societies in Portsmouth.

The trip will include stop over privileges en route and returning and first class accommodations will be provided. In order that every detail of the grand tour may be properly looked after, the publishers will either send an agent in advance or with the party to make arrangements.

Everybody knows that the Pan-American exposition at Buffalo is to be grander and greater in every way than the World's fair and the visit will be the event of a lifetime.

The contest opened on Monday, March 4, when the first ballot appeared and which will appear daily until June 1, next, the last ballot to appear on the latter date, and the three persons having the greatest number of votes will have the grand privilege that has been offered. The last ballots must be received at the Herald office by 7.30 p. m., on Wednesday June 5, and the results of the contest will be announced at the earliest possible date.

This is an opportunity never before equalled in this section of the country and well worth the attention of everyone eligible for such a trip. Vote early and vote often. Elect yourself.

Manager McGraw of the Baltimore ball team claims to have secured a treasure in Tokahama, the full blooded Indian who will succeed Soekalexis, the Cleveland Indian, in the base ball world. Tokahama is said to be even a better player than Soekalexis.

He leaves a wife, three sons, Edward, Roland and Ralph Bartlett, and one daughter, Edith, who is the wife of John Griffin of Newmarket. He is also survived by one brother, James Bartlett, who was associated with him in the farming industry.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

There is a cure for dyspepsia. Sufferers who have tried noxious nostrums will probably be sceptical, but skepticism vanishes when Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are tried. Whether the trouble is dyspepsia of long standing, or merely a simple case of indigestion, relief is prompt and pronounced. The less the trouble the fewer tablets need be used. Heaviness after eating, sour stomach, as indicated by belching, fatigue with slight exertion, or with no exertion at all, disturbed sleep, nervousness, constipation, depression, "bines," these things can commonly be set down as symptoms of dyspepsia. And dyspepsia is merely indigestion in an aggravated form.

By promoting perfect digestion, Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets produce strong nerves, restful, refreshing sleep, pure blood and good sound healthy flesh. They make the skin clear, the eyes bright, the mind cheerful.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are a medicine and more than a medicine. They digest the food and make it easy of assimilation, and they relieve the inflamed, diseased condition of the membranous linings, and the glands of the stomach and bowels. They help the digestive organs over the hard places, and put them into a healthy, active condition. They effect a quick and permanent cure. You don't have to continue taking them forever, still it is well to have a box handy and take one at the first return of the trouble.

Perfectly well people are made sick by eating too much, or unwholesome food, but not if they take a tablet after eating. Treatment with Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets does not necessitate dieting or any change of habit. They digest the proper food and act upon the other kind in such a way as to make it pass off quickly and harmlessly. You may eat and drink what you like, when you like, and as much as you like if you take a tablet afterwards.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are sold by all druggists at 50 cents for full size package.

Send to F. A. Stuart Co., Marshall, Mich., for little book on stomach diseases, mailed free.
